- Permanent Cash Reserve
- Client Directed Portfolio Account
- Client Directed Account (No Trading Authority)
- Client Picks Account
- Restricted or Control Stock Account
- Margin Account
- Alternative Investment Account

Each Specialty Account is described later in this section.

Avalon assesses the Client’s individual needs (e.g., tax situation, diversification needs, other assets held, social concerns, etc.) to determine the appropriate asset allocation among the Accounts. Not all Client allocations include each type of Account. A Client’s fees are determined, in part, by the Accounts selected, as discussed below. Additionally, as described below, Avalon will facilitate the ability of Clients with particular needs (e.g., positions in restricted or “control” stock, desire to use margin, desire to exercise discretionary authority over a portion of the Account) to establish certain Specialty Accounts, which may or may not be subject to additional fees charged by Avalon.

Under certain circumstances, Avalon may establish additional Accounts for a Client.

Except as otherwise described herein, investments for Private Clients are managed in accordance with the Client's investment objectives, strategies, restrictions, and guidelines, as communicated to Avalon by the Client or the Client's primary advisor.

Private Funds:

Private Clients may invest in certain privately placed pooled investment vehicles managed by other investment advisors ("Private Funds"), organized as domestic limited partnerships or limited liability companies or as non-U.S. entities. Avalon provides investment advice and other services related to these investments to such Clients ("Client Advisory Services") for a fee ranging from 0.50% to 1.00% (depending on the private fund); or, an entity that is related to Avalon as a general partner or via joint venture agreement receives a portion of the Private Fund fees. Currently, Avalon maintains such arrangements with BlackGold® Capital Management, LP; f/64 Capital Management, LLC; JVL Advisors, LLC; and, Wallace Capital Management, Inc. Clients choosing to participate in these funds may be eligible for a reduction in the management fee charged by the Private Fund or its advisor.

If a Private Client invests in an Avalon Private Fund or Private Fund, the value of such interests is not included as part of the Client's Account when calculating Avalon's advisory fees. However, the Client Advisory Fee or the fees paid to Avalon or a related entity concerning Private Funds may be based, in whole or in part, on such assets.

Additionally, an affiliate of Avalon, Avalon Wealth Management, LLC ("AWM"), places Private Funds for compensation. AWM is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") as a broker-dealer. Please see the Section "Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations" for more detailed information. If AWM receives compensation for these private placements, no Client Advisory Fee will be charged.

Each Avalon Private Fund or Private Fund offered to certain Clients is managed in accordance with its investment objective, strategies and guidelines and is not tailored to the individualized needs of any particular investor in the fund (each an "Investor"). Therefore, Investors must consider whether the Avalon Private Fund or Private Fund meets their investment objectives and risk tolerance before investing. Information about each Avalon Private Fund or Private Fund can be found in its offering documents, including its private placement memorandum ("PPM").

Each Private Fund offered by Avalon will be organized as a limited partnership or limited liability company under the laws of the State of Delaware or another appropriate jurisdiction, for which an Avalon affiliate will usually serve as general partner or managing member, as applicable, but is not the investment advisor to the fund. Avalon expects each Private Fund to qualify for an exemption from the definition of "investment company" under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("1940 Act") under 1940 Act Section 3(c)(7) and to offer interests to Investors pursuant to Regulation D or Regulation S under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("1933 Act"). As a result, this disclosure brochure ("Brochure") may discuss information relevant to such investors, as necessary or appropriate. Nonetheless, this Brochure is designed solely to provide information about Avalon and should not be considered to be an offer of interests in any Private Fund. It is also not an offer of, or agreement to provide, advisory services directly to any recipient. Rather, this Brochure is designed solely to provide information about Avalon for the purpose of compliance with certain obligations under the Advisers Act and, as such, responds to relevant regulatory requirements under the Advisers Act. This information may differ from the information provided in a PPM. The PPM shall govern any conflict between discussions herein and similar or related discussions in any PPM.

Avalon Private Funds:

Avalon Carlyle Private Equity Fund I, LP

The Avalon Carlyle Private Equity Fund I, LP (“Avalon Carlyle”) is a fund-of-funds that seeks attractive returns through exposure to a portfolio of underlying private equity funds (the “Carlyle Funds”) sponsored by a third-party manager, Carlyle Investment Management L.L.C. or its affiliates (collectively, “Carlyle”). The fund is closed to new investors.

Avalon Global Real Assets Fund, LP

The Avalon Global Real Assets Fund, LP (“AGRA”) is a fund-of-funds that seeks attractive returns through investing in a portfolio of underlying private equity funds (the “Targeted Funds”), each of which are sponsored or advised by Carlyle Investment Management L.L.C. and its affiliates (collectively, “Carlyle”), or other third-party investment managers (together with Carlyle, the “Portfolio Managers”). The fund is closed to new investors.

Avalon High Income Municipal Fund, L.P.

The Avalon High Income Municipal Fund, L.P. (“High Income Municipal Fund”) was launched in August 2012. Its primary investment objective is to provide investors with income that is exempt from federal income tax by investing in municipal debt securities. Secondly, the High Income Municipal Fund may also seek to achieve capital appreciation by selling municipal debt securities on the over-the-counter (OTC) market. The High Income Municipal Fund may also invest in or hold other assets.

Avalon Private Energy Fund, LP

The Avalon Private Energy Fund, LP (“APEF”) is a fund-of-funds that seeks attractive returns through investing all of its assets in Bayou City Energy II, L.P. (“EFM IV”), each of which is sponsored or advised by a third-party investment manager, respectively Bayou City Energy Management LLC (“Bayou City”) or (“EnCap Flatrock Midstream”) a joint venture between Flatrock Energy Advisors, LLC (“Flatrock”) and EnCap Investments, L.P. (“EnCap”). The fund is closed to new investors.

Specialty Accounts:

Funding Account (Non-Discretionary or Discretionary)

Clients who transfer securities portfolios for Avalon’s management are advised to establish a funding account to facilitate a “keep/sell” analysis. This analysis of securities identifies which should be sold by Avalon or kept as part of an Avalon Account and enables the client to direct the timing of investments into various Avalon Accounts. Assets in these accounts may be sold entirely at the client’s direction (non-discretionary) or the timing may be left to the discretion of the Client Advisor (discretionary); in either case, Avalon has trading authority over the Funding Account. Avalon does not charge a fee for this Account.

Permanent Cash Reserve Account

A cash reserve account maintains a reserve of cash for client checking or funding commitments. Avalon assists in establishing a brokerage account with preferred, unrelated custodial broker-dealers where cash is invested in a money-market “sweep” product, which has its own fees and expenses, as described in the prospectus for the product. Avalon does not charge an additional fee for this Account. At the client’s written direction, Avalon assists with money-movements to and from this Account.

Client Directed Portfolio Account

Clients who wish to make certain investment decisions on their own may establish a Client Directed Portfolio Account to facilitate these trades. Avalon will assist the client in establishing a brokerage account with preferred, unrelated custodial broker-dealers to benefit the client in obtaining transaction costs at Avalon’s negotiated, institutional rates. Avalon may also assume the Client Directed Portfolio Account’s custodial fees. Avalon does not have trading authority on Client Directed Portfolio Accounts.

Client Picks Account

Under certain legacy arrangements, clients who wish to make specific investment decisions on their own have established an account known as a “Client Picks Account.” The Client informs Avalon as to the desired transactions and Avalon executes the trades on the Client’s behalf. Although Avalon will not review any Client Picks trade as to the merits of such trade or for consistency with the Client’s investment objectives, Avalon may combine these trades with other Client trades to seek best execution or for other reasons. Additionally, Avalon may hold or take action on securities traded by a Client through a Client Picks Account in Avalon employee-related, proprietary or other Client accounts. Avalon has no obligation to inform a Client requesting a Client Picks trade of any such holdings or actions.

Avalon will not act as a broker or dealer with respect to Client Picks trades. Rather, Avalon offers Client Picks Accounts the use of its trading desk in these circumstances as a courtesy and convenience to Clients and not for any transaction-based compensation. Avalon may refuse any trade or discontinue access to its trading desk at any time.

Restricted or Control Stock Account

Avalon Clients may hold restricted stock or be an “Insider” or “Control Person” under federal securities laws. Avalon requests that Clients who hold securities subject to such restrictions inform Avalon of any affected positions, which will be segregated in a “Restricted or Control Stock Account.” Avalon will sell such shares only upon receipt of such instructions from the Client. Avalon Does not charge an additional fee for this Account.

Margin Account:

Avalon will assist in opening a separate, non-discretionary Margin Account for Clients who wish to trade on a margin basis. Avalon does not charge an additional fee for this Account.

Alternative Investment Account

Avalon Clients may have an account holding one or more of the Avalon Private Funds or Private funds described above. Such an account will be made on separate written instructions. The terms of an individual Alternative Investment will be governed by the agreement relating to such investment. Avalon does not charge an additional fee for this Account.

Additional Services Available to Private Clients

Consolidated Reporting Services:

Upon client's request, Avalon reports on assets not held in an Avalon Account. Avalon provides manual tracking of such assets for informational purposes only and is not responsible for investment decisions related to such assets. Avalon will manually enter information about these assets from statements provided by the Client on a periodic basis (usually quarterly or annually), as agreed with the Client. Avalon meets with Clients to review these investments at the Client's request.

Avalon Family Office:

At Client request, Avalon provides additional investment advisory advice and services on investment accounts, including those accounts not managed by Avalon. These services include providing the following for such Clients:

- Advise and assist Client in the development of an investment policy statement including the determination of short and long-term investment goals, downside risk tolerance, target returns, and asset allocation ranges.
- Provide multi-manager advice based solely on information that is readily accessible through public sources or provided to Avalon by the Client for this purpose. The Client will make the final decision whether to engage any investment manager.
- Provide advice regarding the timing of investment in various asset classes, including the transition of the portfolio to be in line with the long-term investment goals and asset allocation as outlined in the investment policy statement.
- Provide advice regarding rebalancing strategy and tactical shifts in the asset allocation.
- Provide consolidated reports of investments and performance measurement based on information supplied by the Client.
- Establish and maintain document storage systems.
- Coordinate with third-party providers (tax professionals, estate attorneys, etc.) as needed.

Avalon Family Office Non-Investment Advisory Services:

At Client request, Avalon contracts to provide stand-alone, non-investment related services. These services include providing the following for such Clients:

- Consult on and establish data reporting and document management systems.

- Provide portfolio accounting, financial reporting, bookkeeping, and bill paying.
- Coordinate with third-party providers (tax professionals, estate attorneys, etc.) as needed.

Subadvisory Services and Managed Account Programs:

Avalon currently provides subadvisory services for several unrelated asset managers. When serving as subadvisor, Avalon often does not have a direct relationship with the other manager's clients and normally does not have contact with those clients; however, in some cases, Avalon's level of contact is significant and Avalon has a direct relationship with the client. Where Avalon does not have a significant, direct relationship with the subadvised clients, the primary advisor is responsible for establishing the financial circumstances, investment objectives and investment restrictions of each subadvised client through an engagement agreement, client profile, questionnaire, investment policy statement or similar means as well as consultations with clients. Each client may enter into an advisory agreement with the primary advisor which dictates the terms and conditions of the relationship, including the fees paid to and services provided by or through the primary advisor.

Matterhorn Model Portfolio Relationships:

Matterhorn Capital Management, an operating division of Avalon ("Matterhorn"), seeks to enter into agreements with various independent and unaffiliated investment advisers, broker-dealers, wrap-program sponsors, asset model platforms and other financial firms (collectively referred to as Financial Firms). These Financial Firms may engage Matterhorn to provide model portfolio investment recommendation services.

Clients who obtain Matterhorn's services on this basis, through an intermediary, usually must complete account documentation with the intermediary and custodian. The terms and conditions of these arrangements vary, including the fees paid to and services provided by or through the Financial Firm, and contact between Matterhorn and such clients will typically take place through the relevant intermediary, if at all. The Financial Firm maintains sole responsibility to implement the model portfolio and may choose to modify or reject a model recommendation provided by Matterhorn.

Client Assets Under Advisement

At December 31, 2017, the Firm had $7.372 billion under advisement. This includes: (1) $6.315 billion of discretionary assets; (2) $0.281 billion of other non-discretionary assets; and (3) $0.776 billion of assets invested in Private Funds or Separately Managed Accounts which are not under Avalon's direct management. For this latter category, the Firm's Client Advisors have recommended that qualified Clients invest in these Private Funds or Separately Managed Accounts and such Clients have followed the Firm's advice.

FEES AND COMPENSATION

Avalon's fees are described generally below and are detailed in each Client's investment advisory agreement and/or in the governing documents and PPM of each Private Fund or Avalon Private Fund. Except as otherwise negotiated with the Client, or described below, fees are calculated based upon the aggregate market value of all assets under management within the Client's Account(s), including allocations to cash and accrued interest. Avalon may group multiple Accounts of a Client (or group of Clients, such as a family) together for fee calculation and billing purposes, and may, but is not required to, negotiate fee types, rates or breakpoints that apply based on assets of the relationship.

Fees may change over time and different fee schedules may apply if Avalon accepts Clients other than Private Clients. As discussed below, fees for Separately Managed Accounts may be negotiable. Fees for Private Funds and Avalon Private Funds generally are not negotiable. Nevertheless, Avalon reserves the right to waive or reduce the fees charged to Investors in an Avalon Private Fund, in its sole and absolute discretion; Avalon also may have negotiated with the advisor of a Private Fund to waive or reduce the fees charged to investors in the Private Fund. Specifically, fees usually are waived or reduced with respect to investments made by, or on behalf of, Avalon and its employees, principals, partners or affiliates. Thus, some Clients or Investors may pay more or less than other Clients or Investors for the same or similar management services depending, for example, on the Account inception date, the number (or value) of related Accounts, the total assets under management by Avalon, and fee negotiation or fee waivers, if any.

Fees will be assessed and paid by deduction from an account quarterly in arrears or on such other basis as Avalon and the Client may subsequently agree in writing. Fees for partial periods will be assessed pro rata.

Fees for Private Funds and Avalon Private Funds are assessed and paid as described in the governing documents and PPM of the applicable fund.

Fees for model portfolios offered by Matterhorn are assessed quarterly in arrears. Fees for partial periods are assessed pro rata. Fees for model portfolios are lower due to the nature of the services provided by Matterhorn.

Fee Schedules

As noted above, fees for Private Clients depend, in part, on the Accounts selected for that Client's asset allocation, unless otherwise negotiated. Similarly, unless otherwise negotiated, breakpoints and minimums, if any, generally apply only to assets within the type of Account and do not depend on the Client's total assets in all Accounts managed by Avalon. For example, the value in a Managed Cash Account would not count towards the value in a Fixed Income Account for purposes of calculating whether the Fixed Income Account meets a breakpoint.

Fee schedules and minimum investments for the various accounts are described below:

Managed Cash (Avalon Cash, Avalon Enhanced Liquidity Short Duration, Avalon Short Duration Fixed Income):

Fees for cash accounts are as follows; for fee purposes, cash accounts are combined when computing breakpoints.

Asset Level	Annual Fee

Fees for these accounts are charged quarterly in arrears.

Avalon may waive a portion of its fees on clients' cash accounts during unusually low yield environments. Avalon considers a variety of factors in determining the amount or percentage of such waivers and is not obligated to waive or continue to waive fees nor to do so based on any set formula. When the yield environment returns to ordinary levels, Avalon will resume charging fees in accordance with normal stated rates.

Fixed Income:

Fees for taxable and tax-exempt fixed income accounts are shown below; for fee purposes taxable and tax-exempt accounts, (excluding Total Market Fixed Income and High Income Municipal Accounts) are combined when computing breakpoints:

Fees for these accounts are charged quarterly in arrears.

Avalon may waive a portion of its fees on clients' short duration fixed income accounts during unusually low yield environments. Avalon considers a variety of factors in determining the amount or percentage of such waivers and is not obligated to waive or continue to waive fees nor to do so based on any set formula. When the yield environment returns to ordinary levels, Avalon will resume charging fees in accordance with normal stated rates.

First $7,500,000	1.00%
Above $7,500,000	0.75%

Fees for these Accounts are charged quarterly in arrears.

Avalon Total Return:

An annual performance fee is charged based on the total return in U.S. dollars for each Avalon Total Return portfolio for each calendar year (or partial calendar year). The performance fee is a flat fee equal to 10% of the total positive return for the year in U.S. dollars. No performance fee is charged if the account returned a negative total return for the calendar year. The fee is calculated on 31 December unless an account is closed in which case it is calculated at the date of closing for the partial calendar year.

$7,500,001 to $25,000,000	0.70%

Above $50,000,000	0.35%

The Avalon Balanced Portfolio minimum asset size is $5,000,000; assets below this minimum may be accepted with an annual fee of 1.00%.

Also, note that the Avalon SMID Cap Equity Account, the Avalon Total Return Account and the High Income Municipal Account offerings are excluded from the Balanced Portfolio. Fees for Balanced Portfolios are charged quarterly in arrears.

Other Types of Fees or Expenses:

Clients may be responsible for certain other fees and expenses (e.g., custodial fees, brokerage commissions, and similar charges) associated with each of the Account types. Please see “Brokerage Practices” below for information about brokerage commissions and other transaction costs. If Client assets are invested in a pooled vehicle such as a mutual fund (including money market funds for cash management purposes), exchange traded fund (“ETF”), or private fund the Client will also bear the additional fees and expenses assessed by such funds with respect to the Client’s investment. Such fees compensate the manager and other service providers of the fund and are separate and in addition to the fees paid to Avalon for selecting and monitoring those investments. These fees are fully disclosed in each fund prospectus or private placement memorandum which is sent to each Client by the authorized party of the pooled vehicle.

Private Funds

As indicated above, Avalon may offer certain Clients the investment services provided by other investment managers, either through 1) a defined series of that manager’s fund; or, 2) through a limited partnership where Avalon is an affiliate of the General Partner; 3) through a separate account; or, 4) through direct participation in the Fund as arranged through AWM. Fees and expenses of those Private Funds are described to Investors, in detail, in each Private Fund’s PPM. Private Fund fees vary depending on the nature of the services provided and investment strategy used. Items included in a Private Fund calculation:

- management fees (based on a percentage of assets under management (usually 1.50% per annum))
- administrative fees, (based on a percentage of assets under management (usually 0 to 0.10% per annum))
- incentive or performance compensation (may be an allocation of additional units of interest in the Private Fund, equal to a percentage of capital appreciation (usually 15% to 20% per annum))
- Additional sales compensation (paid to AWM as a broker-dealer for placing Clients in specific Private Funds)

See also the section “Other Financial Industry Affiliations and Activities.” Fees are generally paid in arrears and on a monthly, quarterly or annual basis, depending upon the specific contractual arrangements with each Private Fund. Asset values are based on market prices (as determined by the Private Fund’s custodian or independent pricing service) on the relevant valuation date (usually the close of market on the last business day of the month, quarter or year.) Fees for a partial period are assessed pro rata. Fee structures vary in Private Funds. Not all Private Funds include each type of fee or compensation.

Avalon’s Private Client contracts allow for termination without penalty upon 30 days written notice, or as otherwise stated in the contract.

Investment Management Services

Subadvisory Services and Managed Account Programs Fees:

The total amount of fees paid by Clients receiving subadvisory services from Avalon through these programs varies. Where an asset-based fee is paid to the primary advisor, the total fee (including both the advisor's and Avalon's fee) will not be less than the advisory fee which that Client would have paid to Avalon for its advisory services absent the subadvisory relationship. In these cases, Avalon generally is paid a fee by the primary advisor in accordance with the fee schedules above. Avalon may offer a discounted fee schedule when the primary advisor assumes certain administrative functions that would otherwise be provided by Avalon. These fees may be paid either in advance or arrears. If an arrangement is terminated during a payment period, a pro rata adjustment will be made to ensure that fees are paid only for the period in which assets were under Avalon's management. The fee paid to a primary advisor may qualify the Client for a reduced or waived commission rate for transactions executed through the primary advisor or an affiliate of the advisor (the "preferred broker"). In these circumstances, the Client typically directs Avalon to execute transactions through the preferred broker, subject to Avalon's duty to seek best execution. In the latter circumstance, Avalon will consider the costs that would be associated with executing away from the preferred broker, in addition to the factors described in the "Brokerage Practices" section.

Solicitation and Client Servicing Arrangements:

Avalon may enter into a written agreement with another registered investment advisor (the "other advisor") who Avalon believes offers beneficial investment management services and expertise to an Avalon Client. In such case, Avalon and the other advisor agree to the solicitation activities of Avalon. These activities may include consultations about potential and actual introductions of Clients to the other advisor. In most cases, Avalon will continue to provide "Client Servicing." Client Servicing includes providing the Client with periodic reports, communicating with the Client regarding the other advisor's investment manager services, and providing such other assistance that serves to promote the continual mutual servicing of the Client. In consideration of the solicitation and servicing, Avalon shares in a portion of the investment management and/or performance fees paid by the client to that manager. Avalon provides a disclosure statement clarifying the fees and relationship between the two advisors.

Valuation

Avalon is compensated based on the market value of Accounts and the High Income Municipal Fund. (A related entity may also be compensated based on performance for some Private Funds not managed by Avalon.) Avalon (or a related or affiliated entity) may benefit from an increase in securities valuations over market value (or fair value where market values are unreliable). Additionally, where an Investor purchases or redeems interests in a Private Fund, or the High Income Municipal Fund at a net asset value (“NAV”) that is impacted by a discrepancy in valuation, such Investor may receive a greater or lesser interest in (or increased or decreased redemption proceeds from) such Private Fund than would have been the case absent the discrepancy. Similarly, existing and continuing investors may suffer dilution or enjoy accretion because of such purchases or redemptions.

Typically, values for listed investments represent the last reported sales price, on the relevant trading market, on the day of valuation. If no sales occurred on such day, the valuation will typically be the “bid” price for long holdings and the “ask” price for short holdings. Avalon generally invests in assets with readily ascertainable market values or reliable valuations. In most cases, valuations determined from published market closing prices and/or provided by custodians or independent pricing services are used in calculating advisory fees and for reporting purposes. Rarely, Avalon may be unable to obtain pricing from these sources.

Where such pricing sources are unavailable, Avalon seeks relevant asset values are obtained using methods determined by Avalon to elicit “fair value” for the investment. This process mitigates the conflicts and potential for material pricing discrepancies for Account assets and ensures that such assets are valued in good faith and are as accurate as is reasonably practicable. Absent reliable valuations from market sources, a custodian, or independent pricing service, (e.g., where securities are illiquid, thinly traded or otherwise difficult to value due to market disruptions, loss of pricing coverage or market making activities by broker-dealers or pricing services, distressed asset sales, extreme market volatility or other factors Avalon determines may diminish accuracy, timeliness or reliability of pricing information), Avalon usually will attempt to ascertain a price by obtaining quotes from one or more brokers or dealers.

While this method (and others employed by Avalon where Avalon is unable to obtain sufficient, reliable broker quotes) is intended to yield a good faith approximation of the value of an asset, no fair valuation method can, before the event (“ex ante”), be guaranteed to have reflected the actual or empirical value of any asset, as might be determined with the benefit of hindsight (particularly in periods of market distress). Thus, the fair value assigned to an asset may not match the next available and reliable market price or, in retrospect, have been the price at which that asset could have been sold during the period in which the particular fair values were being used in determining an Account’s value for performance or fee calculation. Avalon’s goal when assigning “fair value” is to determine the price that a Client might reasonably expect to receive from the current sale of that asset in an arm’s length transaction.

Positions in the High Income Municipal Fund that are illiquid and do not actively trade will be marked to market by the General Partner. If not feasible, the investment will be carried at fair value, as reasonably determined by the General Partner. Positions in Avalon Carlyle, AGRA and APEF will be valued by each of the underlying fund investment managers. Each Investor’s capital account in Avalon High Income Municipal Fund, Avalon Carlyle, AGRA and APEF will be calculated by the administrator.

PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES AND SIDE-BY-SIDE MANAGEMENT

Advisers Act Section 205 generally prohibits a registered investment adviser from receiving compensation that is based on a share of capital gains on or appreciation of funds of an advisory client. Advisers Act Rule 205-3 provides an exemption from this prohibition for advisory agreements with “qualified clients.” Under the current Rule 205-3, a “qualified client” includes a client that, immediately after entering into the contract, has at least $1 million under the management of the adviser or a net worth of more than $2.1 million, excluding the value of a client’s primary residence and certain property-related debts from the net worth calculation.

Avalon generally does not charge performance-based fees on its Client Accounts but may charge such fees on Private Funds and Avalon Private Funds as outlined in each fund’s documents. On an exception basis, a performance-based fee may be negotiated with terms dependent upon the particular investment requirements of the Client. The Firm occasionally recommends investments in Private Funds and Avalon Private Funds which may charge performance-based fees.

Because Avalon recommends both accounts which pay performance-based fees and those that do not, the Firm may have an incentive to favor its performance-paying accounts over those that do not. This conflict is mitigated through Avalon’s policy and practice of treating all Client Accounts fairly and equitably and through attention to each Account and Avalon Private Fund’s investment objective.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

Avalon provides investment advisory services to:

- Individuals
- High net worth individuals, trusts, and estates
- Banking or thrift institutions
- Pooled investment vehicles (other than investment companies)
- Pension and profit sharing plans
- Charitable organizations
- Corporations and other businesses
- Other investment advisors
- Insurance companies

Avalon prefers to establish relationships of at least $10,000,000 to act as investment manager for a Client. This preference is separate from any minimum account sizes described above. Additionally, the Private Funds may require a minimum initial investment. The minimum initial investment requirement for High Income Municipal Fund is $250,000. Each of Avalon Carlyle, AGRA and APEF required a minimum aggregate commitment of $500,000. In addition, investors must meet the requirements for “accredited investors” under the 1933 Act and in some cases “qualified clients” under the Advisers Act and will also be required to be “qualified purchasers” under the 1940 Act and/or “qualified eligible persons” under regulations of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. Avalon may waive any such minimums. Lower minimums may apply where Avalon’s services are provided through a subadvisory relationship, managed account program, or through a model portfolio relationship offered by Matterhorn, an operating division of Avalon.

METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES AND RISK OF LOSS

In managing Client Accounts and providing recommendations to non-discretionary Clients, Avalon uses various investment strategies and methods of analysis, as described below. This section also contains a discussion of the primary risks associated with these investment strategies. However, it is not possible to identify all the risks associated with investing. The risks applicable to an Account will depend on the nature of the Account, its investment strategy or strategies and the types of securities held by the Account.

While Avalon seeks to manage Accounts so that risks are appropriate to the return potential for the strategy, it is often not possible or desirable to fully mitigate risks. Any investment includes the risk of loss and there can be no guarantee that a level of return will be achieved. Clients and Investors should understand that they could lose some or all of their investment and should be prepared to bear the risk of such potential losses, including through diversification.

Clients and Investors should be aware that while Avalon does not limit its advice to particular types of investments, mandates may be limited to certain types of securities (e.g., equity securities) and may not be diversified. The Accounts generally are not intended to provide a complete investment program. Avalon expects that the assets it manages do not represent all the Client's or Investor's assets. Clients and Investors are responsible for appropriately diversifying their assets to guard against the risk of loss in any one asset type.

Methods of Analysis

Avalon uses a combination of analysis types to evaluate investments for client accounts:

- Fundamental -- Analysis of financial attributes of a company, such as revenue growth, earnings growth, industry dynamics, and product or service evaluation
- Technical – Price, volume and chart analysis which assumes past performance may be a predictor of future performance
- Valuation – Price/earnings ratios, price/book ratios, debt-to-equity, debt coverage, and value relative to industry peers

Sources of information used in Avalon's analysis:

- Financial newspapers and magazines
- Research materials prepared by others
- Corporate rating services
- Annual reports, prospectuses, filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission
- Company press releases

Avalon investment strategies used to implement investment advice:

- Long-term purchases (securities held at least a year)
- Short-term purchases (securities sold within a year)
- Trading (securities sold within 30 days)
- Short sales

- Margin transactions
- Option writing, including covered options, uncovered options or spreading strategies

Investment Strategies

Avalon employs a fundamental, long-term approach in evaluating securities, seeks a return reflective of the underlying asset class for each account, and (where possible) aims to maintain lower volatility. Avalon raises cash reserves during periods of perceived higher market risk but generally will seek to maintain fully invested accounts over a typical market cycle. Securities selected usually are expected to be held for long-term capital gains, with the aim of providing higher after-tax returns.

Avalon may suggest that Clients invest in private funds, some of which are managed by Avalon. Avalon may also use hedging, options or derivatives and leverage to achieve investment objectives. For temporary defensive purposes, the Firm may hold a significant portion of an Account's assets in cash or cash equivalents if warranted.

Investment strategies of each of the discretionary Accounts follow:

for emerging markets. The portfolio sector weights generally will not exceed two times the index sector weights or 25% of the portfolio. Index funds and exchange traded funds inherently contain additional expenses. These additional expenses are not deducted from the Avalon management fees charged.

- Avalon Growth Equity Account will be managed in accordance with a diversified master equity portfolio of 40 – 60 mostly large and mid-cap stocks traded on a major U.S. stock exchange, in attractive industries with strong market positions, above-average growth in earnings and cash flow, and attractive financial and valuation metrics. The primary objective of the account is total return with a heavy emphasis on income generation. The account is structured to invest primarily in the securities of energy based MLPs but does maintain the flexibility to invest in other energy-related securities at the manager’s discretion. Partnerships that produce any income and/or gains derived from the exploration, development, mining or production, processing, refining, or transportation (including pipelines transporting gas, oil, or products thereof) of any mineral or natural resource may qualify under Section 7704 (d)(1)(e) of the Internal Revenue Code as an MLP.

The manager utilizes a thesis-driven, top-down investment approach driven by a thematic screen for countries, regions, and sectors whose fundamentals are believed to be positioned to benefit from short, medium and longer-term economic trends. This will typically be accomplished by between 15-25 positions with a target weighting of 2%-10%. Risk of Loss

Issuer Risk – A portfolio's performance depends on the individual securities in which the portfolio invests. Changes to the financial condition or credit rating of an issuer of those securities may cause the value of the securities to decline.

Interest Rate and Credit Risk – The two main risks related to fixed income investing are interest rate risk and credit risk. Typically, when interest rates rise, a corresponding decline in market value of bonds follows. Credit risk refers to the possibility that the issuer of the bond will not be able to make principal and interest payments. The principal on mortgage-backed or asset-backed securities may normally be prepaid at any time, which will reduce the yield and market value of these securities. Obligations of U.S. Government agencies and authorities are supported by varying degrees of credit but generally are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government.

Municipal Security Risk – Municipal securities are subject to interest rate, credit, default and valuation risks. There may be less information available on the financial condition of issuers of municipal securities than for public corporations. The market for municipal bonds may be less liquid than for taxable bonds. A portion of the income may be taxable. Some investors may be subject to Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT). Capital gains distributions, if any, are taxable.

Equity Securities Risk – Equity securities are subject to changes in value. Their values may be more volatile than other asset classes. The price of equity securities fluctuates based on changes in a company's financial condition and overall market and economic conditions.

Compounding Risk – Certain index exchange traded funds (ETFs) seek investment results which are the inverse of a particular index, and for a single day only, not for longer periods. For periods longer than a single day, the ETF will lose money when the level of the index is flat, and it is possible that the ETF will lose money even if the level of the index falls. Longer holding periods, higher index volatility, and inverse exposure each exacerbate the impact of compounding on an investor's returns. Avalon seeks to mitigate this risk through daily monitoring.

Derivatives Risk – Investments in derivatives, such as futures, options, swaps or tender-option bonds, to hedge a portfolio’s investments or to seek to enhance returns, entails specific risks relating to liquidity, leverage, and credit that may reduce returns and/or increase volatility. Leverage may involve the use of various financial instruments or borrowed capital in an attempt to increase the return of an investment. The use of leverage involves risk and may entail a loss greater than the amount originally invested.

Emerging Markets Risk – investments in emerging market issuers may be subject to a greater risk of loss than investments in issuers located or operating in more developed markets. Emerging markets may be more likely to experience inflation, political turmoil and rapid changes in economic conditions than more developed markets. Emerging markets often have less uniformity in accounting and reporting requirements, less reliable securities valuations and greater risk associated with custody of securities than developed markets.

Private Funds:

In addition to the risks identified above, investors in a Private Fund, which is a speculative investment and involves a high degree of risk, may be subject to additional risks. These include the lack of liquidity for interests of the Private Fund. Please see applicable PPM for a discussion of such additional risks.

Avalon Private Funds:

Avalon Carlyle Private Equity Fund I, LP (“Avalon Carlyle”)

Through investing all or substantially all its assets in four Carlyle Funds, Avalon Carlyle’s investment objective is to provide investors with attractive exposure to private equity investment opportunities across multiple geographies, including the U.S. and Asia, as well as to seek to take advantage of specific market dislocations across the globe, including Europe. Avalon Private Clients and non-clients were solicited to invest in this Avalon Private Fund. Risks to investing in this fund include risks inherent in private equity investments and the Carlyle Funds’ expected use of leverage. Additional structural risks include, but are not limited to, the higher fees and expenses incurred by a fund-of-funds and the limited liquidity of investments in private investment vehicles. Please refer to the Avalon Carlyle documents for a detailed discussion regarding its risks beyond those listed previously.

Avalon Global Real Assets Fund, LP (“AGRA”)

AGRA’s investment objective is to provide investors with attractive returns through investing all, or substantially all, of its assets in Targeted Funds sponsored by Carlyle and third-party managers. The Targeted Funds, in turn, seek to invest in real asset related investments across multiple geographies and seek to take advantage of specific market dislocations across the globe. The Targeted Funds are expected to invest in real asset opportunities that benefit from inflation and that may provide diversification to traditional asset classes through reduced correlation and volatility. Avalon Private Clients and non-clients were solicited to invest in this Avalon Private Fund. Risks to investing in this fund include risks inherent in private equity investments and the Targeted Funds’ expected use of leverage. Additional structural risks include, but are not limited to, the higher fees and expenses incurred by a fund-of-funds and the limited liquidity of investments in private investment vehicles. Please refer to the AGRA documents for a detailed discussion regarding its risks beyond those listed previously.

Avalon High Income Municipal Fund, LP (“High Income Municipal Fund”)

Under normal circumstances, and after an initial investment period of up to 180 days following the commencement of the High Income Municipal Fund’s operations, the High Income Municipal Fund will invest at least 80% of its net assets in municipal debt securities that (i) pay interest that is excluded from gross income for federal income tax purposes, and (ii) do not produce income that will be considered to be an item of preference for purposes of the alternative minimum tax by investing in revenue and general obligation bonds. The High Income Municipal Fund may invest up to 10% of its net assets in defaulted municipal debt securities. At least 40% of the High Income Municipal Fund’s net assets will be invested in municipal debt securities that are rated BBB/Baa or lower. The High Income Municipal Fund may invest up to 20% of its net assets in securities that produce income that is subject to federal income tax. The High Income Municipal Fund may invest up to 25% of its net assets in municipal debt securities issued by entities deemed to have similar characteristics. Please refer to the High Income Municipal Fund documents for a detailed discussion regarding its risks beyond those listed above under Municipal Security Risk.

Avalon Private Energy Fund, LP (“APEF”)

APEF’s investment objective is to provide investors with attractive returns through investing its assets in two Portfolio Funds, Bayou City Energy II, L.P., and EnCap Flatrock Midstream Fund IV, L.P., each of which is sponsored or advised by a third-party “Portfolio Manager,” respectively Bayou City Energy Management LLC (“Bayou City”) or (“EnCap Flatrock Midstream” a joint venture between Flatrock Energy Advisors, LLC (“Flatrock”) and EnCap Investments, L.P. (“EnCap”).) The Portfolio Managers, in turn, seek to primarily make direct private equity investments in assets or portfolio companies in the oil and gas sectors.

Risks to investing in APEF include risks inherent in private equity investments and the Portfolio Funds’ expected use of leverage. Since a substantial portion of the Partnership’s assets will be allocated to the Bayou City Fund, the Partnership’s investments will be concentrated so that the performance of one or more of the Portfolio Funds may substantially impact, potentially negatively, the return of the Partnership’s investments as a whole.

The Portfolio Funds’ respective investment programs are speculative and entail substantial risks. Market risks are inherent in all investments to varying degrees. Accordingly, no assurance can be given that the strategy or strategies utilized by the Portfolio Managers with respect to the Portfolio Funds will be successful under all or any future market conditions, or that the Portfolio Funds will be able to implement their investment strategies, achieve their investment objectives or avoid substantial losses.

Additional structural risks include, but are not limited to, the higher fees and expenses incurred by a fund-of-funds and the limited liquidity of investments in private investment vehicles. Please refer to the APEF documents for a detailed discussion regarding its risks beyond those listed previously.

DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

Neither Avalon nor any of Avalon’s supervised persons have been involved in any legal or disciplinary events (i.e., criminal or civil action in a domestic, foreign or military court, administrative proceeding before the SEC, any other federal regulatory agency, any state regulatory agency or selfregulatory organization) that are material to evaluating Avalon's advisory business or the integrity of Avalon management.

OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

Avalon has several related entities:

Avalon Wealth Management LLC ("AWM") is an entity formed to engage in private placements of investment funds. AWM is a member of FINRA as a broker-dealer, which allows AWM to receive sales commissions on assets placed in Private Funds. AWM is also registered as a broker-dealer with the SEC. This compensation creates a conflict of interest with Avalon Clients, as the Firm may recommend to Clients they invest in a Private Fund for which AWM (and its personnel who may be making the recommendation) will receive compensation. This conflict is mitigated through disclosure to Clients and through the fact that Avalon will not include these assets on which AWM has been paid a sales compensation in the base for Avalon's management fee calculation.

Avalon Carlyle Private Equity Fund I GP, LLC is the general partner of Avalon Carlyle PE Fund I, L.P. Recommending Clients invest in Avalon Carlyle creates a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon's receipt of the investment management fee and later receipt of distributions from Avalon Carlyle. This conflict is mitigated through a continual disciplined approach to assessing the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring the Client has reviewed Avalon Carlyle documents before investing.

Avalon Global Real Assets Fund GP, LLC is the general partner of Avalon Global Real Assets Fund, LP. Recommending Clients invest in AGRA creates a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon's receipt of the investment management fee. This conflict is mitigated through a continual disciplined approach to assessing the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring the Client has reviewed the AGRA documents before investing.

Avalon High Income Municipal GP, LLC is the general partner of Avalon High Income Municipal Fund, LP. Recommending Clients invest in the High Income Municipal Fund creates a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon's receipt of the investment management fee from the High Income Municipal Fund. This conflict is mitigated through a continual disciplined approach to assessing the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring the Client has reviewed the High Income Municipal Fund documents before investing.

Avalon Private Energy Fund GP, LLC is the general partner of Avalon Private Energy Fund, LP. Recommending Clients invest in APEF creates a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon's receipt of the investment management fee. This conflict is mitigated through a continual disciplined approach to assessing the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring the Client has reviewed the APEF documents before investing.

Avalon Wallace Investment Management, LLC is the general partner of a Private Fund, Avalon Wallace Investment Fund, LP, managed by an advisor unaffiliated with Avalon, Wallace Capital Management, LP. Avalon may recommend to Clients they invest in this Private Fund, creating a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon's ownership share of the general partner, which receives a share of the management and performance fees from the Private Fund. This conflict is mitigated through a disciplined approach to assessing the Client's investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring that the Client has reviewed the Private Fund documents before investing.

Avalon may recommend for certain other Clients an investment in a separately managed account for which Wallace Capital Management, LP (“Wallace”) serves as investment manager and for which Wallace shares its fees with Avalon under a solicitation and client servicing arrangement. This conflict is fully disclosed in the required Solicitor’s Written Disclosure Document and is mitigated through a disciplined approach to assessing the Client’s investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring that the Client has received the solicitation documents and has been apprised of the financial arrangements between Wallace and Avalon.

BlackGold Capital Management, LP entered into a Joint Venture Agreement (“JV Agreement”) with Avalon in which Clients of Avalon and BlackGold may invest in the Avalon-BlackGold Share Class of the BlackGold Partnership or may invest in separately managed accounts with BlackGold. The JV Agreement also permits clients of an unrelated broker-dealer to invest in the BlackGold Investment Opportunity Fund, LP as an exception to the exclusivity provisions of the JV agreement. Although AWM will receive from BlackGold a portion of the management and incentive fees paid by clients of the unrelated broker-dealer, no fiduciary duty is owed by Avalon to their clients.

Avalon may recommend to Clients that they invest in the Avalon-BlackGold Share Class, creating a conflict of interest between Avalon and these Clients. This conflict exists due to Avalon’s joint venture agreement with BlackGold, in which Avalon receives a share of the management and performance fees from the Private Fund via a placement agreement with AWM. This conflict is mitigated through a disciplined approach to assessing the Client’s investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring that the Client has reviewed the Private Fund documents before investing.

Avalon may recommend for certain other Clients an investment in a BlackGold separately managed account, for which BlackGold shares its fees with Avalon under a solicitation and client servicing arrangement. This conflict is fully disclosed in the required Solicitor’s Written Disclosure Document and is mitigated through a disciplined approach to assessing the Client’s investment objectives and risk tolerance and ensuring that the Client has received the solicitation documents and has been apprised of the financial arrangements between BlackGold and Avalon.

Cynosure Management, LLC, part of The Cynosure Group, an investment firm based in Salt Lake City, Utah, is an SEC-registered investment adviser engaged in providing private investment advisory and wealth management services. This affiliated entity is under common control with Avalon because it is controlled by individuals who also are Elected Managers of Avalon.

Cynosure Management provides investment advice on private equity and other alternative investments; it is the manager of two pooled investment vehicles which jointly own a minority interest in Avalon. Cynosure Management also is the manager of the Cynosure Avalon BuildGroup, LLC fund which is closed to new investors. Avalon Wealth Management acted as Placement Agent for the fund, selling interests to qualified purchasers, some of whom also are clients of Avalon. The conflicts arising from these relationships were outlined in the fund offering documents provided to, and the Placement Agent Disclosure agreement acknowledged by, each fund investor.

Cynosure Management has entered into an investment sub-advisory and administrative services agreement with Avalon. Cynosure Management allocates some of its clients’ assets, where appropriate, to investment strategies managed by Avalon, which creates a conflict of interest as both Cynosure Management and Avalon receive management fees from those clients; this conflict is mitigated through disclosure to clients, including the Avalon Disclosure Brochure and Supplements for each Avalon Portfolio Manager.

CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

Avalon may act as investment manager to numerous Client Accounts and may give advice and act with respect to Accounts managed by Avalon, or for their own Accounts, or the Account of their access persons, that may differ from action taken by Avalon on behalf of other Accounts. Avalon is not obligated to recommend, buy or sell, or to refrain from recommending, buying or selling any security that Avalon or its access persons may buy or sell for its or their own accounts or for any other Account Avalon manages. Additionally, Avalon's personnel may invest or otherwise have an interest, either directly or indirectly, in private funds which, in turn, may invest in securities held in other managed Accounts. Avalon is not obligated to refrain from investing in securities held in the Accounts it manages except to the extent that such investments violate Avalon's Code of Ethics (the "Code"), adopted pursuant to Rule 204A-1 under the Advisers Act.

Avalon's buy or sell programs may extend over a period of months and securities are often held for several years. Occasionally, Avalon officers and employees have interests in securities owned by or recommended to Avalon's Clients. As these situations may represent a potential conflict of interest, Avalon has implemented procedures relating to personal securities transactions and insider trading that are designed to identify potential conflicts of interest and prevent or mitigate actual conflicts of interest. These policies and procedures, including Avalon's Code, are intended to avoid conflicts of interest with Clients and resolve such conflicts appropriately if they do occur. Any supervised person of Avalon who fails to observe Avalon's Code and related policies risks serious sanctions, including dismissal and personal liability. Upon request, a copy of the Code is available to any Client or Investor, or prospective Client or Investor.

The Code describes the general standard of conduct that Avalon expects of all personnel and focuses on specific areas where the conduct of personnel has the potential to adversely affect the client, including misuse of nonpublic information and personal securities trading.

Misuse of Nonpublic Information:

Avalon and its related persons may, from time to time, come into possession of material nonpublic and other confidential information which, if disclosed, might affect an investor's decision to buy, sell or hold a security. Under applicable law, Avalon may be prohibited from improperly disclosing or using such information for their personal benefit or for the benefit of any other person, regardless of whether such other person is an advisory Client. Accordingly, should Avalon come into possession of material nonpublic or other confidential information with respect to any company, it may be prohibited from communicating such information to, or using such information for the benefit of, its Clients, and has no obligation or responsibility to disclose such information to, nor responsibility to use such information for the benefit of, its Clients or Avalon personnel when following policies and procedures designed to comply with law.

Avalon has adopted a "Policy Statement on Insider Trading" in accordance with Advisers Act Section 204A which establishes procedures to prevent the misuse of material nonpublic information by Avalon's supervised persons. Among other things, all personnel must read, sign and adhere to Avalon's policy on insider trading which reflects current securities law, including, but not limited to, the Insider Trading and Securities Fraud Enforcement Act of 1988.

Personal Securities Trading:

Avalon or individuals associated with the Firm are restricted from the purchase and sale for their own Accounts of any covered security on the same business day as a transaction in any such security is effected for a Client Account unless all the transactions contemplated for Avalon Clients in that security have been completed before such transactions. Access persons also may not engage in a personal transaction in a security for which any order for a Client is pending until such order is executed or withdrawn. Avalon's trading policies allow access persons to trade simultaneously with trades being placed for Clients when their funds are being managed by Avalon in a similar manner to Avalon's Clients. All access persons are required to notify the Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO") or designee to pre-clear personal securities transactions in reportable securities, initial public offerings ("IPOs") and limited offerings.

Employees are required to submit quarterly reports of their personal transactions within 30 days of the end of each calendar quarter to the CCO or designee. These reports may consist of monthly brokerage statements for all Accounts in which they have a beneficial interest. Alternately, access persons may direct their brokers to send copies of all brokerage confirmations relating to all personal securities transactions in which they have a beneficial ownership interest for reporting purposes. Employees also must report all securities holdings to the CCO or designee annually if statements are not provided. These are reviewed by the CCO to ensure compliance with the Firm's policies.

Investments in Private Funds:

Avalon may offer its Clients the opportunity to invest in private funds managed by unaffiliated investment advisors, but Avalon will not make such investments on a discretionary basis. Avalon may also offer eligible Clients the opportunity to invest in Avalon Private Funds, but Avalon will also not make such investments on a discretionary basis. As these may not be appropriate investments for all Clients, not all Clients will be offered the opportunity to invest and not all Clients who are offered that opportunity choose to invest.

Avalon Clients who invest in certain Private Funds managed by unaffiliated investment advisors with whom Avalon has entered into appropriate arrangements may be charged a Client Advisory Fee, as described above, or may be offered the opportunity to participate in a discounted class of interests in the relevant Private Fund. Avalon Clients who invest in Avalon Private Funds will not be charged a Client Advisory Fee on those assets. For further information, please see the Private Fund's PPM. The PPM is provided to Avalon and the relevant Client prior to investment. Avalon and/or its personnel may also have interests in these or other Private Funds.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Selection of Custodians

Avalon may recommend one or more firms to serve as custodian ("Custodian") to hold the funds and securities of a Private Client Account. The identity of and relevant information about the Custodian for each Private Client Account is provided to the Private Client. The Custodian may also serve as the prime broker and may execute transactions on behalf of the Account, consistent with best execution. Avalon also may choose which broker effects a particular transaction and, on occasion, the amount of commission the Private Fund pays for such trade. Avalon may “trade away” for specific trades, executing trades through brokers other than the Custodian to gain access to greater inventory or better price or execution. Avalon may recommend Custodians to provide specific services to the Account, allowing the Account to operate effectively and efficiently. For example, Avalon may gain electronic access to Account information and trade confirmations, bulk mailing of statements to Investors or Clients, provision internet Account access to Investors or Clients, and access to specialized customer service personnel.

Selection of Brokers

Avalon places orders for the purchase or sale of securities with the primary objective of obtaining prompt execution of orders at the most favorable price and execution readily obtainable from responsible broker-dealers at competitive commission rates. Avalon insists on a high standard of quality regarding execution services and deals only with brokers that can meet that standard. Avalon may also place value on brokers and dealers who are able to provide useful brokerage and research assistance.

Avalon’s objective in selecting brokers and dealers and in effecting portfolio transactions is to seek to obtain the best combination of price and execution with respect to its Accounts’ portfolio transactions. The best net results, giving effect to brokerage commissions (which may not be the lowest available, but which ordinarily will not be higher than the prevailing competitive rate for similar types of trades), spreads and other costs, is normally an important factor in this decision, but a number of other judgmental factors are considered as deemed relevant.

In applying these factors, Avalon recognizes that different broker-dealers may have different execution capabilities for different types of securities and transactions. The factors include:

- Avalon’s knowledge of negotiated commission rates and spreads currently available
- the nature of the security being traded
- the size and type of the transaction
- the nature and character of the markets for the security to be purchased or sold
- the desired timing of the trade and speed of execution
- the activity existing and expected in the market for the particular security
- the broker-dealer’s access to primary markets and quotation sources
- the ability to effect transactions at all where a large block is involved or where liquidity is limited
- confidentiality
- the execution, clearance and settlement capabilities as well as the reputation and perceived soundness of the broker-dealer selected and others which are considered
- Avalon’s knowledge of actual or apparent operational problems of any broker-dealer

- the broker-dealer’s execution services rendered on a continuing basis and in other transactions
- the broker-dealer’s reliability in executing trades, keeping records and accounting for and correcting its trade errors
- the broker-dealer’s ability to accommodate Avalon’s needs with respect to one or more trades, including the willingness and ability to maintain quality execution in unusual or volatile market conditions and, if necessary, to commit capital by taking positions to complete trades
- the availability of the broker to stand ready to execute possible difficult transactions in the future
- the quality of the communication links between Avalon’s trading desk and the broker-dealer’s
- the quality of brokerage and research services provided by the broker-dealer
- the reasonableness of spreads or commissions

When buying or selling securities in dealer markets, Avalon may, when consistent with its duty to seek best execution, deal directly with market makers either on a commission basis or on a “net” basis, without paying the market maker any commission, commission equivalent or markup/markdown other than the “spread.” Net trades mean that the market maker profits from the “spread,” that is, the difference between the price paid (or received) by Avalon and the price received (or paid) by the market maker in trades with other broker-dealers or other customers. Most NASDAQ Stock Market securities are now traded on a commission basis as more and more market makers shift from principal to agency trading.

Occasionally, Avalon may execute over-the-counter trades on an agency basis rather than directly through a market maker. In these situations, the broker used by Avalon then acquires or disposes of a security through a market maker. The transaction may be subject to a markup or mark-down. Avalon uses a broker in such instances only when consistent with its duty to seek best execution for Client transactions. The use of a broker in this manner may benefit Clients by providing anonymity in connection with a transaction or because the broker may have greater expertise or capability in connection with market access and transaction execution. Avalon has found that it may not receive the same level of service through a market maker as through a broker-dealer trading on an agency basis.

Avalon may cause its Clients to engage in “step out” transactions in which the Client pays commissions in respect of a transaction to one broker, but the transaction is executed by a second broker. Avalon will only cause its Clients to engage in such transactions if doing so is consistent with Avalon’s duty to seek best execution.

Avalon may use an Electronic Communications Network (“ECN”) or Alternative Trading System (“ATS”) to effect such over-the-counter trades when, in Avalon’s judgment, the use of an ECN or ATS may result in equal or more favorable overall executions for the transactions. Avalon pays a commission to an ECN or ATS that, when added to the price, is still better than the overall execution price that might have been attained trading “net” with a market maker.

At least annually, and as appropriate depending upon trading volume, Avalon's trading committee ("the Committee") and other appropriate members of Avalon's staff meet to review trading practices and activities. These meetings include evaluating the quality of executions received and commission rates paid by discretionary accounts, to determine if any changes should be made in their brokerage arrangements. The goal of this process is to promote reasonable, good faith judgment to select broker-dealers or other trading venues that will consistently provide quality execution at an acceptable cost.

In allocating transactions to broker-dealers and consistent with Avalon's policies and procedures, Avalon considers the value of brokerage and research services provided by a broker-dealer, as long as such consideration does not jeopardize the objective of seeking best price and execution for Client transactions. Broker-dealers typically provide a bundle of services including research and execution of transactions. Under its discretionary authority and consistent with the duty to seek best execution, Avalon may direct brokerage transactions for Client Accounts to broker-dealers who provide Avalon with useful research and brokerage products and services.

Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

Research services provided by a broker-dealer can be either proprietary (i.e., created and provided by the broker-dealer, including tangible research as well as access to analysts and traders) or third-party (i.e., created by a third-party but provided by the broker-dealer). The brokerage commissions used to acquire research in these arrangements are known as "soft dollars." Avalon uses soft-dollars to acquire either or both types of research; however, Avalon will not enter into any agreement or understanding with a broker-dealer that would obligate Avalon to direct a specific amount of brokerage transactions or commissions for such research (or brokerage) services. Certain broker-dealers may state in advance the amount of brokerage commissions they require for some services and the applicable cash equivalent. Research or brokerage services acquired by Avalon with soft dollars include, without limitation and to the extent permitted by applicable law:

- research reports on companies, industries, and securities
- economic and financial data
- financial publications
- broker-sponsored industry conferences
- market data related software and services

Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, provides a "safe harbor" that allows an investment advisor to pay for research and brokerage services with the commission dollars generated by Client Account transactions. Under SEC interpretations, client commissions may be used for certain research and brokerage-related products and services that assist Avalon in meeting its Clients' investment objectives or in managing the Clients' accounts. The receipt of these services in exchange for soft dollars benefits Avalon. Specifically, at no cost to the firm, Avalon may:

- supplement or assist Avalon’s own research and analysis activities, by, for example, arranging or conducting meetings between Avalon and management of individual companies to allow Avalon to converse with company officials
- receive the views of and information from individuals and research staffs of other securities firms
- gain access to persons having special expertise in certain companies, industries, areas of economy and market facts

Therefore, Avalon has an incentive to direct Client Account transactions to broker-dealers that provide research or other products or services rather than our Client’s interest in receiving the most favorable execution. Avalon may allocate brokerage commissions for brokerage and research services that are also available for cash, when appropriate and permitted by law. While the receipt of research in exchange for soft dollars is not expected to reduce Avalon’s normal research activities, Avalon’s expenses could increase materially if it attempted to generate such additional information and services through its own staff. Avalon may also pay cash for certain services.

Avalon’s policies on the use of soft dollars are consistent with the safe harbor except where otherwise disclosed to Clients or Investors. In determining whether to “pay up” for a particular execution, Avalon evaluates whether the related product(s) or service(s) provided by the broker:

- (i) with respect to research items, consist of advice, analyses or reports containing substantive content with respect to appropriate subject matter(s) or (ii) with respect to brokerage items, are sufficiently related to the trading, clearance or settlement of securities transactions and are provided and/or used during the time period beginning when Avalon communicates with the relevant broker-dealer for the purpose of transmitting an order for execution and concluding when the funds or securities are delivered to the advised account or the agent of the account holder
- provide lawful and appropriate assistance to Avalon in carrying out its relevant responsibilities to Client Accounts
- are acquired for an amount of commissions which is reasonable in relation to the value of the product or service.

These determinations are made by and based primarily on the professional opinions of the persons responsible for the placement and review of such transactions. Such opinions are formed on the experience of these individuals in the securities industry and information available to them concerning the level of commissions being paid by other investors of comparable size and type.

Avalon may select broker-dealers based on its assessment of each broker-dealer’s ability to provide quality executions and its belief that the research, information and other services provided by such broker-dealer may benefit Client Accounts. It is not possible to place a dollar value on the quality executions or on the brokerage and/or research services Avalon receives from broker-dealers effecting transactions in account securities. Accordingly, broker-dealers selected by Avalon may be paid commissions for effecting account transactions for Client Accounts in excess of amounts other broker-dealers would have charged for effecting similar transactions if Avalon determines in good faith that such amounts are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and/or research services provided by those broker-dealers, viewed either in terms of a particular transaction or Avalon's overall duty to its discretionary Accounts.

Research obtained with soft dollars will not always be used by Avalon for the specific Account that generated the soft dollars. The value of research and brokerage services often cannot be measured with precision. Commissions paid for such services cannot always be allocated to Clients in direct proportion to the value of the services to each Client. Because Avalon routinely batches Client transactions, brokerage commissions attributable to one or more Client Accounts may be allocated to brokers who provide statistical data and other research used by Avalon in managing the Accounts of other Clients, and vice versa. Although it is often inevitable (at least in the short run) that commissions paid by other Accounts may, in effect, subsidize services that benefit other Accounts, Avalon's various sources of research and brokerage services enable Avalon to make better investment decisions and execute more effective trades. Therefore, Avalon does not usually attempt to allocate the relative costs or benefits of research among Client Accounts because it believes that, in the aggregate, the research it receives benefits Clients and assists Avalon in fulfilling its overall duty to Clients.

Avalon may use soft dollars to pay for any specific service or for any portion of its "mixed-use" items (products or services that provide both research and non-research benefits). If Avalon chooses to obtain a particular product, it may use available soft dollar credits and pay cash to make up any difference. If the product or service obtained by Avalon is a mixed-use item, Avalon may use soft dollars for the research portion and pay cash for the non-research portion. Although the allocation between soft dollars and cash is not always capable of precise calculation, Avalon will make a good faith effort to allocate such items reasonably. Records of any such allocations and payments will be prepared and maintained.

Trades executed in a Client Picks Account, Avalon equity accounts or odd lot trades executed through Advent's Moxy® trade order management system may generate soft dollars with Bloomberg Tradebook, LLC, Instinet, LLC "INSTINET®" or other providers. Client Picks Accounts may be generating soft dollars which are then used by other Client Accounts, creating a potential conflict of interest between Clients.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

Avalon does not enter into agreements with or make commitments to, any broker-dealer that would bind Avalon to compensate that broker-dealer, directly or indirectly, for client referrals through the placement of brokerage transactions. Excluding ERISA Accounts, where one or more broker-dealers is believed capable of providing an equivalent quality of execution for a particular portfolio transaction, Avalon may select a broker-dealer in recognition of the broker-dealer's past referral of the Client for whom the transaction is being executed, or of other Clients, or in anticipation of possible future referrals from the broker-dealer. Avalon may have an incentive to select a broker-dealer that has referred, or may in the future refer, a client to Avalon. In doing so, unless otherwise specifically disclosed to the Client, Avalon will not cause an account to pay higher commissions, concessions or mark-ups/downs than would otherwise be obtainable regarding such a transaction from broker-dealers that do not provide such referrals but which otherwise provide similar execution quality services (including, as applicable, soft dollar services) for Avalon rather than on our Client's interest in receiving most favorable execution. Clients may limit Avalon's discretion by directing Avalon to trade through a particular broker-dealer, including one which may have referred the Client to Avalon. Additionally, Avalon may exercise its discretion to execute transactions through broker-dealers that also refer Clients when the use of such a broker-dealer is consistent with Avalon's duty to seek best execution and without consideration of such referrals as a factor in the brokerage decision.

Client Directed Brokerage

While Avalon generally selects broker-dealers to execute transactions for discretionary Clients, in limited circumstances, Avalon accepts direction from Clients as to which broker-dealer(s) should or must be used. Clients may direct Avalon to use particular broker-dealers to execute account transactions for their Accounts. If the Client directs the use of a particular broker-dealer, Avalon generally asks the Client to specify, in writing:

- (1) general types of securities for which the designated firm should be used; and,
- (2) whether the designated firm should be used for all transactions.

Clients who, in whole or in part, direct Avalon to use a specific broker-dealer to execute Account transactions should be aware that, in doing so, they may adversely affect Avalon's ability to, among other things, negotiate commission rates or spreads, obtain volume discounts on bunched orders or to obtain best price and execution. This may occur by executing over-the-counter stock transactions with the market makers for such securities.

Transactions for a Client who directs brokerage generally will not be combined or "batched" for execution purposes with orders for the same securities for other Accounts managed by Avalon. In these instances, trades for a Client who has directed Avalon to use a specific broker or dealer to execute its trades generally will have its trades placed at the end of batched trading activity for a security. Accordingly, directed transactions may be subject to price movements, particularly in volatile markets, that may result in the Client receiving a price that is less favorable than the price obtained for the batched order. Under these circumstances, the direction by a Client of a particular broker or dealer to execute transactions may result in higher commissions, greater spreads, or less favorable net prices than might be the case if Avalon could negotiate commission rates or spreads freely, or select brokers or dealers based on best execution.

A broker may be recommended to an individual Account to provide custodial or other services for the Client. In those cases, transactions may be effected for the Account through the custodial broker while maintaining the primary objective noted above of obtaining the best price and execution at competitive commission rates. Avalon may also receive directives from certain Clients to direct brokerage through or to make a "best effort" to attempt to transact business with a Client-designated broker in consideration for services received solely by that Client from the broker. In such instance, only the Client's own "soft dollars" are used. Unless contrary written instructions are provided by the Client, primary consideration is given to seeking best execution of the Client's transactions and Avalon generally cannot guarantee that any particular amount of brokerage will be executed through any particular broker-dealer.

Clients should understand that directing brokerage or otherwise limiting or removing Avalon's discretion to select broker-dealers to execute their Account transactions may affect the quality of executions for their Account. In such circumstances, best price and execution may not be achieved.

Commission Rates or Equivalents

Avalon endeavors to be aware of current charges of eligible broker-dealers and to minimize the expense incurred for effecting portfolio transactions to the extent consistent with the interests and policies of its Accounts. Avalon periodically reviews the quality of executions received from the broker-dealers it uses and may consider the services of other broker-dealers who may be available to execute Client transactions when evaluating Avalon's best execution efforts. Any broker-dealer that has provided (or may be reasonably expected to provide) acceptable performance and whose financial condition and commission rates are acceptable to Avalon may be selected to execute transactions for Client Accounts. Avalon may choose to maintain an "approved broker list" consisting of such broker-dealers; however, broker-dealers not on such a list may still be selected if Avalon believes that using such a broker-dealer is consistent with its duty to seek best execution of Client transactions.

Avalon may choose to set non-binding ranges for commission rates or negotiate with broker-dealers when possible. However, Avalon will not select broker-dealers solely on the basis of "posted" commission rates nor always seek in advance competitive bidding for the most favorable commission rate applicable to any particular portfolio transaction. Although Avalon seeks competitive commission rates, it will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or commission equivalent. Transactions may involve specialized services on the part of the broker-dealer involved resulting in higher commissions or their equivalents than would be the case with transactions requiring more routine services.

Avalon uses several different broker-dealers and may pay higher commission rates (or equivalents) to those whose execution capabilities, brokerage or research services, or other legitimate and appropriate services or efforts on Avalon's behalf are particularly helpful in seeking good investment results for Clients. Avalon recognizes that some brokerage firms are better than others at executing certain types of orders. Thus, it may be in the best interest of Avalon's Clients to use a broker-dealer whose commission rates are not the lowest, but whose executions may result in more favorable net results. The overriding consideration in allocating Client orders for execution is the maximization of returns through a combination of controlling transaction and securities costs (or maximizing proceeds) and seeking the most effective uses of the broker-dealers' relevant capabilities.

The reasonableness of commissions is based on the broker's ability to provide professional services, competitive commission rates, research, and other services which will help Avalon in providing investment management services to Clients. Avalon may, therefore, use a broker-dealer who provides useful research and brokerage services even though a lower commission might be charged for the same transaction by a broker-dealer who offers no research services and minimal transaction assistance. In this connection, Avalon makes a good faith determination that the amount of commission is reasonable in relation to the value of the research and/or brokerage services provided, viewed in terms of either the specific transaction or Avalon's overall responsibility to its Clients. However, the extent to which commission rates or net prices reflect the value of these services often cannot be readily determined.

Order Aggregation

Because the size and mandate of Client Accounts often differ, the securities held in Client Accounts may not be identical. In appropriate circumstances, any Account managed by Avalon may purchase or sell a security prior to (or after) other portfolios managed by Avalon. This could occur, for example, because of the specific investment objectives of the Client, different cash resources arising from contributions or withdrawals, or the purchase of a small position to assess the overall investment desirability of a security.

Transactions for each Client Account generally are effected independently, unless Avalon decides to purchase or sell the same securities for several Clients at approximately the same time. Because Accounts that are managed in similar styles often have similar or identical portfolio compositions and weightings, Avalon may seek to acquire or dispose of the same security for multiple portfolios contemporaneously. As part of the duty to seek best price and execution and consistent with relevant investment advisory agreements, Avalon may, but is not required to, “bunch” or batch together such trades and allocate the trades, in a fair and equitable manner over time, across participating Accounts. Avalon may include proprietary and personnel Accounts in such aggregate trades, subject to its duty of seeking best execution and to its Code of Ethics. Prices received by Avalon personnel participating in a batch trade will be no better than the average price assigned to participating Client Accounts. Executing transactions on a batched basis may facilitate best execution by, for example, allowing Avalon to negotiate more favorable commission rates or prices, to obtain more timely or equitable executions or to reduce overall transaction costs and charges.

Avalon seeks to aggregate trade orders in a manner consistent with its duty to:

- seek best execution of Client orders
- treat all Clients fairly and equitably over time
- not systematically advantage or disadvantage any Client or group of Clients

When a decision is made to aggregate transactions for multiple Accounts, Avalon will allocate the results of those transactions to participating Accounts in a manner that is fair and equitable over time. When a bunched order is filled in its entirety, each participating Account will participate at the average price paid or received, per share or unit, on that day for the bunched order, based, generally, on the initial amount requested for the Account (subject to certain size- or cost-related exceptions), and each participating Account will pay or receive the average share or unit price for the portion of the bunched order filled on that same business day and will pay associated transaction costs based on that Account’s participation in the bunched trade. When a bunched order is partially filled, Avalon will allocate the order in accordance with relevant written allocation and aggregation procedures, described generally below.

Pro rata allocation generally is used when a batch order, which usually involves only non-directed Accounts and seeks only liquid, actively traded securities, cannot be fully executed in a single day unless the Client has expressly directed otherwise. The partial fill is allocated among the participating Client Accounts based on the size of each Account’s original order, subject to rounding to achieve “round lots.” Unexecuted orders will continue until the block order is completed or until all component orders have been canceled. New orders for the same security will be aggregated with any remaining unexecuted orders and will continue in the same manner. Avalon generally will apply a minimum order allocation amount of 100 shares, which may be adjusted based on market convention associated with the security. Similar market conventions may be applied to fixed income trades.

If remaining positions are too small to satisfy the minimum order amount, Avalon may decide to allocate the remaining shares to those Accounts seeking large positions which were unfilled. Avalon may also decide to allocate remaining shares to those Accounts whose orders would be completed because of the allocation. Avalon may allocate on a basis other than pro rata, if, under the circumstances, Avalon believes that such other method of allocation is reasonable, does not result in improper or undisclosed advantage or disadvantage to participating Accounts and results in fair access over time to investment and trading opportunities for all eligible Accounts. For example, Avalon may identify investment opportunities that are appropriate for one Account or group of Accounts but not others (or with respect to which a relatively higher weighting is appropriate for one Account or group of Accounts over others) based on such factors as: investment objectives and style; risk/return parameters; legal, regulatory and client requirements or restrictions; tax status; account size; sensitivity to turnover; available cash; and cash flows. Consequently, Avalon may determine that it is appropriate to place a given security in one Account rather than another or to allocate a security more heavily to particular Accounts over others. Other non-pro rata methods that Avalon may employ include rotational allocation and random allocation. Alternative methods of allocation may be especially appropriate when the transaction size is too limited to be effectively allocated pro rata among all eligible managed Accounts.

Avalon may also consider the following when allocating trades:

- cash flow changes (including available cash, redemptions, exchanges, capital additions, and capital withdrawals) which may provide a basis to deviate from a pre-established allocation if it does not result in an unfair advantage to specific Accounts or types of Accounts over time
- Clients with specialized investment objectives or restrictions emphasizing investment in a specific category of securities may be given priority over other Accounts in allocating such securities
- the proportion that the size of the Client's order bears to the total amount desired by all Clients
- the size of each Account's original order
- the desire to achieve "round lots"
- the relative size of the participating Accounts
- each participating Account's current holdings of the security and other securities
- for bond trades, street convention and good delivery may dictate minimum size and par amounts

As previously discussed, Clients who direct Avalon to use a particular broker-dealer may be unable to participate in batched transactions. There may be circumstances where a directed broker would be expected to provide better execution for Clients making such a direction than could be obtained by including those Clients' transactions in the batched order and, in such cases, those transactions will be executed through the directed broker. When possible, Avalon endeavors to include such Clients in batched transactions using “step-outs”. Where not included in a batched order, these orders will be executed at the end of any aggregated trading activity. Accordingly, such orders may be subject to price movements, particularly in volatile markets, that may result in a price (without giving effect to relevant transaction costs) that is less favorable than the price obtained for the aggregated order.

While Avalon may effect trades in this manner to reduce the overall level of brokerage commissions paid or otherwise enhance proceeds or other benefits of the trade for their Clients, Avalon may direct transactions to brokers based on both their ability to provide high-quality execution and the nature and quality of research services. As a result, Clients may not always pay the lowest available commission rates where their trades are effected in this manner, so long as Avalon seeks to obtain best price and execution, under the circumstances and considering the research and brokerage services provided.

Cross Trades

Avalon may cause an Account to purchase or sell securities from or to another Account in a “cross trade.” This occurs rarely. When engaging in cross trades, Avalon follows policies and procedures designed to ensure that participating Accounts are treated fairly and that an appropriate price is assigned to the crossed security. In certain circumstances, cross trades may reduce execution-related costs for participating Accounts. Under applicable law, ERISA accounts may be limited in their ability to engage in cross trades.

Allocation of Initial Equity Public Offerings “IPOs”

Avalon generally does not invest Client Accounts in IPOs. If Avalon does determine to invest Client Accounts in IPOs, as defined in relevant rules established by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”), such investments will be allocated fairly and consistently with FINRA Rules 5130 and 5131. These rules provide that broker-dealers, their affiliates and certain other persons (“restricted persons”) may not be able to participate in IPOs. Only Accounts that are eligible under Rules 5130 and 5131 to participate in profits and losses attributable to IPOs (“eligible Accounts”) will be permitted to receive allocations of new issues. Avalon generally will make allocations of IPOs on a pro rata basis among eligible Accounts. However, when allocating IPOs, Avalon may consider relevant tax implications for the Client Account and to what extent the Client’s Account custodian can execute same day trades in IPOs.

Avalon’s Code requires that any investment in an IPO by an access person be pre-cleared by Avalon’s CCO. Avalon usually does not grant such requests.

Trade Error Corrections

Avalon’s trading desk seeks to execute transactions as instructed by the portfolio manager and in accordance with our duty of care. However, occasionally, errors will occur. When Avalon is responsible for a trade error, Avalon, rather than the Client, bears the costs and risks of erroneous trades. When a trade error is discovered by a trader or other relevant person, the error is documented, and Avalon transfers the erroneous position to that broker or custodian’s “error account” when possible at the price paid or received by the Client and seeks to unwind the position as quickly as is practicable. The trade error policy of the custodian generally will dictate the trade error mechanics.

Avalon bears the economic risk of losses in positions in the error account. Additionally, Avalon or the broker or custodian absorbs all brokerage or other transaction costs related to correcting errors.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

Review of the Accounts is ongoing and continuous by the Client Advisor assigned to the Account. Such reviews will include an examination of the Account's strategy, performance, and other matters. The Client Advisor assigned to a Client will also discuss the Client's overall strategy and goals no less than twice annually, or at Client request. Clients are encouraged to contact Avalon if there are any changes in their financial situation or investment objectives.

Clients can access and review their Accounts and portfolios online at all times, including the written Quarterly reports provided to Avalon Clients. Quarterly reports provided to Avalon clients contain: (i) the assets held in the Account; (ii) the performance of the Account in both percentage and dollars; and, (iii) any transactions in the Account during that quarter. Each Client receives an annual Realized Gains & Loss Report.

Quarterly reports from Avalon to each Client will reflect each Client's position, as appropriate, in a private fund for which the Client receives Client Advisory Services.

Investors in Private Funds will receive such reports as are provided for in the relevant Private Fund's PPM. To comply with the Custody Rule, the Private Fund's advisor may choose to provide annual audit reports within 120 days following the Private Fund's fiscal year end (180 days for a fund of funds). Annual reports include or are accompanied by information with respect to the performance of the Private Fund, information regarding the Investor's capital account, and certain tax reporting information (e.g., Form K-1). Investor reports are issued quarterly and may include valuations of the Private Fund's assets, transaction summaries and the value of an Investor's interest in the Private Fund as well as unaudited financial information including the performance of the Private Fund against an appropriate benchmark.

Investors in Avalon Private Funds will receive reports as described in the relevant documents. In compliance with the Custody Rule, Avalon provides annual audit reports within 120 days following the fiscal year end of High Income Municipal Fund and 180 days following the fiscal year end of Avalon Carlyle, AGRA, and APEF. Such annual reports include or are accompanied by information with respect to the performance of the Avalon Private Fund, as well as information regarding the investor's capital Account, and certain tax reporting information (e.g., Form K-1). As appropriate, Investors in High Income Municipal Fund receive quarterly updates on the performance of each fund. Investors in Avalon Carlyle, AGRA and APEF are provided with quarterly reports containing descriptive investment information and other information necessary for tax return preparation.

Avalon may rely on information provided by third parties in preparing reports and a third party may assist in preparing or distributing reports. Where reports include or rely upon information from a source other than Avalon (e.g., index information when a report includes a comparison of the Account's performance to that of an index), Avalon attempts to obtain such information from reliable sources. The accuracy of such information cannot be guaranteed. As noted in the "Fees and Compensation" section, reports may include or rely upon fair value determinations made by Avalon or a third party. While such valuations are made in good faith, their actual or empirical accuracy cannot be guaranteed.

Avalon personnel are available to meet with Clients and Investors upon request. Upon reasonable request, we will tailor reporting to meet the needs of a Client.

CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Avalon does not currently maintain referral arrangements, paid or otherwise, with any Custodian or other third-party solicitors. In the event Avalon should, in the future, pay cash referral fees to a third-party solicitor, the referral agreement and the related activities will comply with Advisers Act Rule 206(4)-3. Rule 206(4)-3 specifies certain standards that must be met by an investment advisor prior to the payment of a cash fee directly or indirectly, for a client solicitation or referral. To the extent that Avalon determines to maintain a referral arrangement, fees charged by Avalon to private Clients or Investors introduced by the solicitor will not, because of the solicitation, be any higher than those charged to similar Clients or Investors who were not introduced by the solicitor.

As discussed above, Avalon's use of a prime broker or Custodian may yield increased administrative ease and, therefore, increased profitability for Avalon.

CUSTODY

In response to Client requests for assistance with third-party wire and other asset-transfer requests, Avalon may operate under a standing letter of authorization or may instruct custodians on a client's instruction to move assets to third parties. In these cases, Avalon may be deemed to have "custody" of Client accounts within the meaning of the Custody Rule. As required by the Investment Adviser Custody Rule 206(4)-2(a)(4), Avalon has contracted with an independent auditor to have an annual surprise exam of Client assets to independently verify the Client funds and securities.

If Avalon is deemed to have custody of a Client Account, the Account Custodian will send the Client periodic account statements (monthly in the case of account activity, and at least on a quarterly basis) indicating the amounts of any funds or securities in the Account as of the end of the statement period and any transactions in the Account during the statement period. A Client should review these statements carefully. Additionally, a Client should contact Avalon immediately if Account statements are not received from the Account Custodian on at least a quarterly basis.

As noted in the "Review of Accounts" section, Avalon may provide each Client with reports or account statements providing information about the Client's Account(s). Each Client should compare these carefully to the account statements received from the Account Custodian. If the Client discovers any discrepancy between the account statements, the Client should contact Avalon and the Account Custodian immediately.

Because an entity related to Avalon serves as general partner or managing member of an Avalon Private Fund, Avalon is also deemed to have custody over the Avalon Private Funds within the meaning of the Custody Rule. To comply with this Rule, the general partner provides each Investor in the Avalon Private Funds audited financial statements within 120 days following the Avalon Private Funds' fiscal year end (and within 180 days following the fiscal year end for any Avalon Private fund of funds.) The audit is conducted by a PCAOB registered and inspected firm. The Client should review these audited financial statements carefully. If the Client has invested in a Private Fund or an Avalon Private Fund and has not received audited financial statements timely, the Client should contact Avalon immediately.

INVESTMENT DISCRETION

For discretionary accounts, the Firm has discretionary authority to manage securities on behalf of its clients, including full trading authority under a limited power of attorney assigned to Avalon per the Client Agreements. As a result, Avalon will determine the following:

- the total amount of securities to buy or sell
- the broker or dealer through whom securities are bought or sold
- the commission rates at which securities transactions for Client Accounts are effected
- the prices at which securities are to be bought or sold, which may include dealer spreads or mark-ups/downs and transaction costs

Except as discussed in the “Advisory Services” section, regarding Funding Accounts, Client Picks Accounts and Restricted or Control Stock Accounts, Avalon typically does not accept Accounts with limited discretion or where investments are Client-directed but may accept Client direction as to the broker or dealer through whom securities are bought or sold. Avalon generally requires that such direction be in writing, either as part of the Client contract or otherwise. Avalon reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to change the brokerage arrangements described herein without further notice to Clients or Investors. Avalon will obtain the permission from the Client prior to opening an Account in the Client’s name at a custodian.

Where discretion has been granted to Avalon, Investment and brokerage decisions for Client Accounts are made by Avalon’s portfolio managers and traders, with assistance from other relevant personnel. In placing brokerage for such accounts, Avalon seeks to:

- determine each Client’s trading requirements
- select appropriate trading methods, venues, and agents to execute the trades under the circumstances
- evaluate market liquidity of each investment and take appropriate steps to mitigate excessive market impact, to the extent practicable
- maintain Client confidentiality and proprietary information inherent in the decision to trade
- review the results of executions on a periodic basis

VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Avalon’s policy is to accept proxy voting authority only for those Client Accounts where a specific written agreement between Avalon and the Client obligates Avalon to do so. Consequently, Avalon generally will not vote proxies relating to equity securities in Client Accounts. Clients who wish to vote proxies should inform their Account Custodian to direct proxy solicitation materials to the Client.

To the extent Avalon has proxy voting authority for a Client Account, Avalon has engaged ProxyEdge, a product of Broadridge Financial Solutions, Inc. (“Broadridge”). ProxyEdge provides proxy information through an automated electronic interface based on share positions provided directly to Broadridge by the Client’s custodian or by means of direct input from Avalon. Glass, Lewis & Co, LLC (“Glass Lewis”) is an unbiased, unaffiliated third-party proxy voting service integrated with the ProxyEdge electronic interface. Proxies generally are voted in accordance with Glass Lewis recommendations for all client types.

A Client may contact Avalon to request receipt of information about how Avalon voted proxies for the Client’s Account, if applicable, or to obtain a copy of Avalon’s Proxy Voting Policy.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Avalon is not aware of any financial conditions that are reasonably likely to impair the Firm’s ability to meet its contractual commitments to its Clients.
